

I feel that the challenge of Indiana's telephone privacy law by the Consumers Bankers Association should be thrown out. It is my money that pays for my phone service. If I elect to having my phone service kept private, that is my decision to make. When someone else starts paying for my phone service, then they can have a say so in whether they can use my phone service.

Please, DON'T allow the Indiana law to be weakened or repealed.
Thank you for your time. Mike Stierwalt.
